FIU’s fully online BA in Latin American and Caribbean Studies offers undergraduate students the ability to develop an interdisciplinary awareness and understanding of Latin America and the Caribbean. The major provides an in-depth, multidisciplinary approach requiring students to achieve intermediate proficiency in Spanish, Portuguese, Creole or French. It offers main concentration areas, a wide range of electives, and provides internship opportunities. Candidates will select courses from their area of concentration, which include Language and Culture, Governance and Security, Migration and Transient Communities, and others in consultation with their advisor. All students complete core coursework in International Political Economy of Latin America and the Caribbean, as well as Latin American and Caribbean Cultures. Students completing the online B.A. in Latin and Caribbean Studies learn from well-qualified experts in fields including History, Economics, Political Science and International Relations, Global and Sociocultural Studies, Modern Languages, and Religious Studies.
