The Bachelor of Arts in Interdisciplinary Studies is our most customizable bachelor’s degree. Whether you’re just starting your undergraduate degree, you’ve taken college courses elsewhere, or you’re ready to transfer, this degree takes into account where you have been, what your interests and abilities are now, and how best to propel you forward into your wished-for career.

This fully online degree program is designed to match your academic and entrepreneurial talent to new or emerging job categories, which will increasingly require those with unique, multi-dimensional skill sets. The degree draws upon courses within the College of Arts, Sciences, and Education as well as other selected FIU schools and colleges. With its individualized focus, our program gives you the flexibility to design a degree that’s specifically aligned with your career goals. To ensure that student interests, previous academic history, and career plans coincide, two dedicated courses (Cornerstone and Capstone) are integrated into the degree requirements.
